New Service for Children

Success Strategies for Students

Patti Kessler announces a new service for children being piloted this summer, called "Success Strategies for Students." A limited number of sessions are available each week for children who may need some additional help. One-hour sessions will combine tutoring in any subject area along with energy techniques and other strategies for improving concentration, focus, brain processing, and learning with ease. Sessions are also available for total focus on energy success strategies without the subject area tutoring.

Success Strategies help with energy and blood circulation in the brain hemispheres and throughout the body to assist with brain function, concentration, and focus. These strategies can help with learning disabilities, test anxiety, hyper-sensitivity, ADD, and many other so-called "learning problems."

Call 513-240-1602 to schedule sessions for your child.
